

New riders

Monday, 11 June 2007

The team has added two new riders. Dean Iversen and Mustafa Sayed have left the team.

New riders are Joe Cooper from New Zealand and Brad White from the USA. Hopefully the new riders can make the team a bit stronger, so the results of the top guys can get better and the young Asian riders do not get 'burned' in races they are not ready for yet.

Brad White is a powerfull guy from Colorado. Team director Mike Carter advised this rider, as he is the only rider Mike (44, ex-pro, ex-team member) cannot drop in training... We know from own experience that Brad must be a tough nail!

Joe Cooper, 2006 U23 New Zeland Champion (TT and road) and New Zeland national team member, is a good climber.

Both riders can start to prove their abilities in Circuito Montanes in Spain. 13-19 june.
