

Sergey 6th, Pol still 3rd GC

Tuesday, 04 September 2007

The Discovery Channel Marco Polo Team is doing well in Korea! Pol is still in 3rd position GC, after the 4th stage. In this 4th stage there were a few leading groups with Sergey and Joe in them, but it finished in a bunch sprint. Sergey managed to get the wheel of Park Sung Baek, the winner of all bunch sprints so far; but they got locked in with 300 meters to go and Sergey got 6th.

Looks like Thijs is finding his legs back after not feeling so good; Kenji is struggling in the cold and rain (every day rain, so far!); and Hisha is showing great fighting spirit!

Only stage 7 still features real climbing, it will be a very tactical race, otherwise with the Luxemburg team Differdange doing the work for their leader Hannes Blank.
