

Still no GC win for Robin!

Friday, 16 March 2007

A few days ago, Robin rode away from the field alone, only to find out he was on the wrong way, when the policemen in front of him turned around. When he got to the finish location, it turned out that all he had left behind had finished quite a while ago... Luckily the commissaires made the right decision and Robin is still in the lead.

Today there were some riots, which made it impossible to race. The last stage has been postponed till tomorrow, making it a day later that the Discovery Channel Marco Polo Team will win its first national tour of the year.

We are waiting eagerly for pictures and stories from Robin!